

Next half term!

We have enjoyed the Oliver Jeffer's book so much this half term that we have decided to continue with this topic and we are going to be delving into another one of his books upon our return. We have exciting things planned all to do with the book 'Lost and Found'. We might even have a special visitor! We are going to be focusing on drama and story writing and creating our very own Lost and Found story. We will also be writing letters, diary entries and making our own story puppets.

CLJ - creative learning journey!

To tie our topic in with our author we are going to be looking at animals and their habitats in science. We will be comparing the South Pole to the UK and finding out where this is in relation to the UK. We will also be looking at loneliness in PSHE and how we can help people who feel this way.

Inspire maths

Year one will be moving on to addition and subtraction and shape and have already been very busy with place value, partitioning and sequencing numbers.

Year 2 will be focusing on addition, subtraction and word problems and have already completed work around place value, comparing numbers and sequences.

We are also looking forward to, dare I say it, Christmas!! This means we will be very busy learning lines, singing songs and learning about the Christmas celebrations from all around the world in RE. We may also write a few letters to the main man himself.

Work is also well under way in our outdoor area and hopefully this will all be completed before Christmas. In the mean time we will continue to set up our resources on the golf course which has proven to be extremely effective this half term.

We look forward to seeing you all after the holidays!

Have a lovely half term.
